Running time: 121 minutes Production date: 3/20/96-5/30/96 Written by BRUCE GROSSMAN and JERRY SCHWARTZ Directed by MARK A. ROGERS In the opening scenes of the film we are introduced to a middle-aged man who has a "near-death" experience. The man is visiting the morgue and seeing the dead bodies of his fellow agents. He attempts to run away when an agent approaches him and tells him he must come with him. We are told the man's name is David Clayton, but is named Alex in a flashback. When Alex was young he met a woman named Mandy who would become his wife. His parents were killed when the family's car was hit by a train when Alex was a child. Alex was taken in by an uncle, who was a priest. When the uncle died Alex inherited a church and was taken under the wing of an old friend, Father William Tracy. Father Tracy promised to keep the secret that Alex's parents were murdered. However, when the day came for Alex to tell the truth about his parents, he made a decision to tell his wife the truth. But, unbeknownst to him, Mandy's father was an agent. So, when Alex's Uncle was about to confess to being a spy, he was killed in a car accident. The accident was staged to look like an accident, but Alex suspects his uncle was murdered for 82157476af
